Introduction

Canada is recognized as a major player in film, television and interactive digital media production. The growth of Canada's multibillion dollar production industry is attributable to our high-standard facilities, competent workforce, physical and cultural proximity to the United States, as well as to very favourable economic factors. These include lower location and production costs than in the U.S. and Europe, a good exchange rate and advantageous government tax incentives and funding policies.

At Heenan Blaikie, we know the advantages associated with producing in Canada, including the various tax incentives provided by both federal and provincial governments. Producing in Canada, our guide to Canadian film, television and interactive digital media incentive programs, provides an overview of some of the available incentives and the criteria that must be satisfied to qualify for them. Although each financing program is described separately for ease of reference, any given production may qualify for two or more.

The information provided in this edition of Producing in Canada is current as of July 2010. The on-line version of our guide, available at www.heenanblaikie.com, is updated on a regular basis.

To find out more about Canadian film, television and interactive digital media incentive programs, please contact one of our entertainment lawyers at any of the offices listed at the end of this document.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

FEDERAL TAX CREDITS

The Canadian federal government assists domestic and foreign producers by offering a number of tax incentives and funding programs that are available to both “service” productions and “Canadian-content” productions. The Canadian Audio-Visual Certification Office (CAVCO), a branch of the Department of Canadian Heritage and the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA), jointly administer the Canadian Film or Video Production Tax Credit Program and the Film or Video Production Services Tax Credit Program. Only one of these tax credits may be claimed for a particular production.

CANADIAN FILM OR VIDEO PRODUCTION TAX CREDIT PROGRAM (CPTC)

The CPTC was established to aid in the development of the Canadian film and television production industry and to promote Canadian television programming. This tax credit is equal to 25% of eligible labour expenditures, capped at 60% of total production costs.

The tax credit is a refundable tax credit (that is, it is fully payable to the production company even if it owes no taxes). It is calculated in conjunction with provincial credits such that the eligible production costs are reduced by any applicable provincial tax credit amount. The holding of an interest in a film or video production by a person other than the production corporation will no longer disqualify the production for eligibility for a tax credit, unless the production or one of the investors is associated with a tax shelter.

Eligibility Requirements:

- An application for certificate of completion (Part B certificate) must be made within 24 months of the first fiscal year end following the commencement of principal photography. The certificate must be issued by CAVCO within 6 months of this date.
- The production company must be a taxable Canadian corporation which satisfies the criteria established by the Income Tax Act Regulations, as interpreted and administered by CAVCO.
- The corporation must be primarily in the business of Canadian film or photography production.
- The production company must own the copyright of the production.
- The production must not fall under the excluded genre categories or productions listed by CAVCO. These are news programs, talk and game shows, sporting and award events, reality television, productions that solicit funds, pornography, advertising, industrial or corporate productions and productions other than a documentary, all or substantially all of which consists of stock footage.
- The production must meet CAVCO’s key creative point requirements.
- The production company must be owned and controlled, either directly or indirectly, by Canadian citizens or permanent residents in accordance with definitions found in a combination of the *Citizenship Act*², the *Immigration Act*³ and the *Investment Canada Act*⁴.

Eligible Expenses

- Eligible labour expenditures must be reasonable under the circumstances, must be included in the cost to the production company, must be incurred for the stages of production (pre to post production) and must be directly attributable to the production itself.
- Eligible labour expenditures exclude amounts paid for the services of non-Canadian residents, unless the person was a Canadian citizen at the time the payment was made.
- Eligible costs may be incurred as early as two years before principal photography begins so that in-house development labour costs of an initial draft of a script, as well as the cost of further revisions are eligible.

QUALIFYING AS A CANADIAN PRODUCTION FOR THE CPTC

CAVCO and the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission (CRTC) are the two government bodies responsible for determining whether a production qualifies as “Canadian.” For more information on certification by the CRTC see the “Qualifying as a Canadian Production for CRTC Purposes” section below. CAVCO bases its determination on a draft regulation to the Income Tax Act (Canada) and it has set guidelines that must be satisfied before a film or television production is certified as Canadian.

Qualifying as a Canadian Production: Cavco

In order for a production, other than a co-production or co-venture,⁵ to qualify as a Canadian film or video production under the CAVCO rules for Canadian content-based tax incentives and other government incentives or enhanced Canadian broadcast license fees available for Canadian programs, the following must be satisfied:

Producer Eligibility under CAVCO

CAVCO introduced the Production Control Guidelines (PCG) on August 31, 2007, (Public Notice - CAVCO 2007 - 01) which replaces the Producer Control Guidelines. The PCG provides further guidance in the determination of the eligibility of productions to the CPTC.

The Canadian producer⁶ must satisfy the following requirements of production control:

- The Canadian producer must have and maintain full control over the development of the project from the time at which the producer has secured underlying rights. Prior development of the project by non-Canadians is permitted.
- The Canadian producer must have and maintain full responsibility and control over all aspects (creative and financial) of the production of the project. Where a non-Canadian has the right to overrule any decision by the producer, the producer will have the onus of establishing, to the satisfaction of CAVCO, that the situation does not interfere with the producer's responsibilities and control.
- The Canadian producer must have and maintain full responsibility and control over all aspects of production financing. Documentation must demonstrate that the producer has assumed and retained the commercial risks associated with the financing and production of the project. Where a non-Canadian has the right to overrule any decision by the producer, the producer will have the onus of establishing, to the satisfaction of CAVCO, that the situation does not interfere with the producer's responsibilities and control.
- The Canadian producer must have and maintain full responsibility and control over the negotiation of initial exploitation agreements. Where the non-Canadian prior owner of the underlying rights retains exploitation rights to more than one significant territory (ie., U.S., Europe, Asia), after the producer has acquired the underlying rights, the producer will have the onus of establishing, to the satisfaction of CAVCO, that the situation does not interfere with the producer's responsibilities and control.
- The Canadian producer is entitled to a reasonable and demonstrable monetary participation in terms of budgeted fees and overhead, and participation in revenues of exploitation. For example, the producer must demonstrate an equity ownership in the project and retain at least 25 per cent of the net profits from the exploitation of the production in non-Canadian markets.

The CAVCO Point System

A production must earn a minimum of six points based on the following allocation system, with points being awarded in each case if the function is wholly performed by a Canadian.

Under CAVCO's amended policy regarding proof of Canadian citizenship or permanent residency, producers and key creative personnel working under the Canadian Film or Video Production Tax Credit (CPTC) will be required to obtain a CAVCO personnel number in order to be eligible for Canadian content points. In order to receive a CAVCO personnel number, each eligible individual must send a copy of their proof of Canadian citizenship or permanent residency directly to CAVCO. Producers should be aware that as of December 31, 2010, it will be mandatory for producers and key creative personnel to have a CAVCO personnel number. Previously, CAVCO required applicants under the CPTC to retain a copy of an individual's citizenship or permanent residency documentation.

Going forward, producers and their counsel are encouraged to include necessary wording in the contracts or deal memos of such key personnel ensuring that each Canadian filling a producer-related or key creative role in their production has obtained a CAVCO personnel number. It is also encouraged that producers and key personnel apply for a CAVCO personnel number as soon as possible, regardless of whether an application for funding has been made.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

Live Action Productions

The point system is as follows for productions other than animated productions:

Position	Points
Director	2
Screenwriter ⁷	2
Highest Paid Lead Performer (or first voice) ⁸	1
Second Highest Paid Lead Performer (or second voice)	1
Production Designer/Art Director	1
Director of Photography	1
Music Composer (original music only)	1
Total	10

In addition, it should be noted that either the Director or the Screenwriter, and either one of the two highest paid leading performers must be Canadian.

Animated Productions

A different 10-point scale applies to animated productions. Animated productions must satisfy a minimum of six of the following 10 points to qualify as a Canadian Film or Video Production. Points are only awarded where the function is wholly performed by a Canadian.

Position	Points
Director	1
Writer and Storyboard Supervisor	1
Highest Paid or Second Highest Paid Lead Voice ⁹	1
Design Supervisor	1
Camera Operator where operation is in Canada	1
Composer of the Musical Score (original music only)	1
Picture Editor	1
Layout and Background performed in Canada	1
Key Animation performed in Canada	1
Assistant Animation/In-betweening performed in Canada	1
Total	10

As with live action productions, at least one of the Director or the Writer and Storyboard Supervisor must be Canadian. In addition, the highest or second highest paid lead voice must be Canadian and all key animation must be done in Canada.

The CAVCO Cost Criteria: Canadian Expenditures

The CAVCO rules require that at least 75% of the total costs for services provided in relation to production must be paid to Canadians in respect of services rendered by Canadians, regardless of where such services are rendered. The following costs are excluded from the calculation:

- Post-production and laboratory services
- Producer remuneration (only fees paid to Canadian producer or co-producer)
- Amounts paid to key creative personnel who are covered by the point system
- Legal and accounting costs
- Insurance costs
- Financing costs.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

In the case of animated productions, the costs associated with positions that entitle the production to a point based on the location where the work is done are not considered to be excluded costs.

In addition, a minimum of 75% of the aggregate cost of post-production and laboratory work, processing and final preparation must be paid for services provided in Canada.

It should also be noted that producers and licensees can apply to CAVCO for preliminary recognition that a film or television production will be a Canadian Film or Video Production if the final production conforms to information submitted to CAVCO. This Canadian Film or Video Production Certificate or “Part A Certificate” (which also provides an estimate of the claimable tax credit) assists producers in financing productions. The production in question must be completed within two years of the year end in which principal photography began, and must file for a final certificate of completion or “Part B Certificate” within 24 months from the end of the year in which principal photography began. The Part B Certificate must be issued within 30 months from the end of the year in which principal photography began.

Qualifying as a Canadian Production for CRTC Purposes

In addition to the content requirements administered by CAVCO, the *Broadcasting Act*¹⁰ provides a framework of rules to determine what is “Canadian.” The organization charged with the responsibility of interpreting and applying these rules is the CRTC. The CRTC is also the government organization with the responsibility of issuing licences to Canadian broadcasters and regulating the amount of time that the broadcasters must devote to Canadian programs.

There are clear similarities in the criteria used by CRTC and CAVCO, and a production which is certified by CAVCO as a “Canadian film or video production” will automatically qualify as “Canadian” for CRTC purposes.

However, a production which the CRTC certifies as “Canadian” may not necessarily be certified as a “Canadian film or video production” by CAVCO. The CRTC released its updated rules regarding “Canadian content” in Public Notice CRTC 2000-42, which took effect on September 1, 2000.

A program which only achieves certification by the CRTC as “Canadian” will not be able to access the CPTC. However, there are other benefits available to a program being accorded certification as “Canadian” by the CRTC. Canadian broadcasters (which includes pay and specialty channels) are required as a condition of their licences to air a minimum amount of Canadian programming, so they are willing to pay a premium for programming which has been certified as Canadian. In addition, Canadian pay and speciality channels are also subject to minimum expenditure requirements in respect of certified Canadian programming. For the foregoing purposes, programming certified by either the CRTC or CAVCO as “Canadian” will suffice.

I. Basic Definition of Canadian Content

The CRTC will certify a program as “Canadian” if it meets the requirements outlined in the three sections listed below.

(A) Producer

The producer must be a Canadian citizen that is the central decision-maker throughout the production. In the event that there are non-Canadians engaged in producer-related functions, the production may still be certified as “Canadian” provided:

- Remuneration of the Canadian producer exceeds the total remuneration to foreign producers
- Non-Canadian producers are on set only to observe, to a maximum of 25% of principal photography.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

(B) Point System

In evaluating Canadian content, the CRTC adopts CAVCO's point system. In addition the Canadian expenditure requirements are substantially similar to CAVCO's requirements. The CRTC has established criteria for live action and animated productions and each must achieve 6 points based on the following key creative functions being performed by Canadians.

Live Action Production or Continuous-Action Animated Production

Director	2 points
Screenwriter	2 points
Lead Performer or First Voice	1 point
Second Lead Performer or Second Voice	1 point
Production Designer	1 point
Director of Photography	1 point
Music Composer	1 point
Picture Editor	1 point

Animated Production (other than Continuous-Action Animation)

Director	1 point
Scriptwriter and Storyboard Supervisor	1 point
First or Second Voice or First or Second Lead Performer	1 point
Design Supervisor	1 point
Layout and Background (location)	1 point
Key Animation (location)	1 point
Assistant Animation/In-Betweening (location)	1 point
Camera Operator (person) and Operation (location)	1 point
Music Composer	1 point
Picture Editor	1 point

Notwithstanding the above tables, at least one of the director or screenwriter positions and at least one of the two lead performers must be a Canadian.

The CRTC will evaluate a live, videotape or film production as a Live Action or a Continuous-Action Production. Animation is the process of creating the illusion of motion through the use of inanimate or still images. The CRTC recognizes two types of animation:

1. Computer Animation: Refers to the use of computers assisting or generating animated movement principally or wholly through digital image synthesis using computers and computer programs.
2. Traditional Animation: is referred to as either "continuous" or "frame-by-frame." "Continuous" animation refers to the process of filming real figures as they are manipulated using mechanical devices, and for the purpose of CRTC "Canadian content" these animations will be treated as "Live Action" Productions. "Frame-by-frame" animation refers to the process of filming or recording a series of poses of figures, shapes, objects, etc. in sequence on successive frames of recording material, thereby giving the illusion of movement.

(C) Expenditure Requirements

Service Costs. These costs represent all expenditures associated with a production. At least 75% of service costs less the costs listed below must be spent on Canadians:

- Remuneration for key creative personnel for points
- Remuneration for producer(s) and co-producer(s) (except for producer-related positions)
- Post-production/lab costs
- Accounting and legal fees
- Insurance brokerage and financing costs
- Indirect expenses
- Contingency costs
- Goods purchased, such as film/videotape supplies
- Other costs not directly related to production.

Post-Production/Lab Costs. At least 75% of all such costs need to be paid for services rendered in Canada by Canadians or Canadian companies.

II. Series

A series is defined as a program with two or more episodes produced by the same producer or production company. The programs must be equal in length and share a common title, theme and situation or set of characters.

The CRTC has recognized that production elements of a series may vary and as such has established a degree of flexibility. A series will be certified as “Canadian” by the CRTC even if certain individual episodes do not satisfy the minimum point requirements, provided that:

- At least 60% of the series' episodes meet or exceed the requirement of six Canadian content points per episode
- The series attains an average of six points per episode
- All episodes are broadcast at equitable times.

III. Sporting Events

Sporting events or tournaments are classified as Canadian by the CRTC, provided that the Canadian licensee or production company maintains control over the production and provides commentators. At least one of the major on-screen personalities must be Canadian and, if the event takes place outside of Canada, Canadian teams or athletes must compete.

IV. Special Recognition for Co-Ventures With Americans And Other International Partners

Co-ventures include co-productions with a foreign producer where there is no co-production treaty between the two countries or where the co-production treaty does not include the venture in question. In the absence of Official Treaty Co-Production status, these productions do not qualify for the CPTC. However, co-ventures certified by the CRTC are eligible for enhanced broadcast license fees since they will qualify as “Canadian” for CRTC purposes. Furthermore, unlike Official Treaty Co-Productions, co-ventures may be produced with American partners.

Co-ventures are considered “Canadian” if it can be shown that the Canadian production company has at least equal decision-making power over creative elements and is responsible for administering the entire portion of the Canadian budget. The production must also obtain a minimum of six Canadian content points, spend 75% on Canadian costs in the services and post-production categories and the director or writer and at least one of the two leading performers must be Canadian.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

When broadcast or distributed by a licensee of the CRTC, co-ventures will qualify for special recognition if the CRTC is satisfied that the documentation shows that Canadian production company:

- Has equal decision-making responsibility on all creative elements
- Is responsible for the administration of at least the Canadian element of the production budget.

When determining whether the decision-making responsibility for the production resides with the Canadian production company, the CRTC will require the following:

- The Canadian production must have sole or co-signing authority on the production bank account
- The Canadian production company must retain a 50% financial stake and a 50% share of the profits
- The Canadian production company must be at financial risk and have budgetary responsibility
- The Canadian production company must have at least an equal measure of approval over all elements of the production with its co-venture partners.

Co-ventures with Commonwealth countries, French-speaking countries or countries with which Canada has a film or television production treaty, may be provided additional flexibility. The production will be considered Canadian if:

- The director or the writer, and at least one of the two leading performers are Canadian
- It meets a minimum of five points for key creative personnel
- A minimum of 50% of the total costs incurred for services is paid to Canadians
- At least 50% of processing and final preparation are paid for services in Canada.

V. Production Packages

The CRTC defines a “production package” as two or more co-productions or co-ventures, undertaken by a Canadian production company in connection with one or more foreign production companies, where a production with minor foreign involvement is matched with a foreign production with minor Canadian involvement. A “twinning” involves matching a Canadian production with a foreign production with only a financial role being played by Canadians. Under the CRTC rules, “production packages” and “twins” can qualify as Canadian content if the following criteria are satisfied:

- The Canadian copyright is held by Canadians for both productions
- The budgets of both productions must be approximately equal
- The co-production agreements for the productions are submitted to the CRTC
- The Canadian production company has financial participation and a minimum 20% share in the profits of both productions
- A broadcaster may receive a credit for a production that has fewer Canadian elements, if it were to broadcast the production with more Canadian elements at an equitable time
- All the productions within the package fall in the same program category. It should be noted that animation productions are not eligible to form part of a production package
- The duration of both matched (or twinned) productions are approximately equal
- The production package program is a drama, comedy, variety, documentary and children's programming
- Both matched (or twinned) productions receive equitable scheduling on the same Canadian station or network.

VI. Dramatic Program Credit

The CRTC will grant a 150% time credit to a Canadian broadcaster each time a certified dramatic production is broadcast that meet the following criteria:

- Produced by a Canadian independent production company or licensee of the CRTC after April 15, 1984
- Certified as a Canadian program and achieves 10 points

FILM OR VIDEO PRODUCTION SERVICES TAX CREDIT PROGRAM (PSTC)

A production that does not meet the Canadian content criteria for the CPTC may be eligible for the PSTC. The PSTC was designed to encourage corporations to employ Canadians. The company can be a foreign owned or Canadian owned corporation. This tax credit is equal to 16% of labour expenditures paid to Canadian residents and there is no cap on the amount that can be claimed under this credit.

The tax credit is a refundable tax credit (that is, it is fully payable to the production company even if it owes no taxes) and it is calculated in conjunction with similar provincial tax credits.

Eligibility Requirements

- The applicant company performing production services must be either a Canadian-owned or foreign-owned corporation with a permanent establishment in Canada.
- The corporation must be primarily in the business of video or video production services.
- The production company must either own the copyright in the film during the production period or be engaged directly by the copyright holder to provide production services.
- The production company must meet the minimum expenditure requirements, which are $1 million for feature films, $200,000 for a one-hour television episode and $100,000 for a 30-minute television episode.

These are news programs, talk and games shows, sporting and award events, reality television, productions that solicit funds, pornography, advertising, industrial or corporate productions and productions other than a documentary, all or substantially all of which consists of stock footage.

Eligible Expenses

Expenses must be Canadian labour expenditures which:

- Are reasonable in the circumstances
- Are directly attributable to the production
- Were incurred after October 1997
- Were paid to persons who were resident to Canada at the time the payment was made
- Were incurred during the production process (pre to post production)
- Are paid for services provided in Canada.

CANADA MEDIA FUND (CMF)

The CMF was launched on April 1, 2010, and combined the former Canadian Television Fund and the Canada New Media Fund. The CMF operates on a budget of $350 million and is subject to yearly review. The purpose of the CMF is to “assist in the creation of successful, innovative Canadian content and applications for current and emerging digital platforms through financial support and industry research.”¹¹

Streams of Funding

CMF's contributions are divided into two streams of funding:

- The Experimental Stream, which invests in the development of innovative content and software applications for eventual integration into mainstream Canadian media platforms; and
- The Convergent Stream, which supports the creation of convergent television and digital media content.

EXPERIMENTAL STREAM

This stream is intended to support digital content that is innovative and interactive (Note: projects must include these characteristics). Funding for this stream is $27 million and the maximum contribution per project is 75% of eligible costs or $1 million, whichever is less. Funding will be delivered as equity investments in which the amount is determined by financial need.

The CMF will choose projects under this stream according to the following: Production team (15%), Innovation and advancement (40%), Business plan (30%), and Distribution strategy (15%).

Eligibility Requirements

- Eligible applicants must be Canadian-controlled, taxable Canadian corporations with their head office in Canada or Canadian broadcasters. Or, the applicant can be a Canadian broadcaster that is licensed to operate by the Canadian Radio-television Telecommunications Commission.
- The applicant must own the copyright for the production.
- The project's underlying rights must be owned and are significantly and meaningfully developed by Canadians.
- The project must be produced in Canada, with at least 75% of its eligible costs being Canadian costs.
- The project must be, and remain throughout its production, under Canadian ownership and Canadian executive, creative and financial control.
- An eligible project must be digital media content and/or application software which is innovative and interactive. It must be intended for the general use of the Canadian public.
- Eligible projects include, but are not limited to mobile applications, videogames, and web series. A television component is not required.

- Research and preparation of content
- Salaries, benefits and wages for project teams
- Hardware and software costs
- Expenses for online content
- Travel and accommodation
- Marketing and promotion.

CONVERGENT STREAM

This stream is intended to support the creation of television shows and related digital media content for four genres: drama, documentary, children's and youth, and variety and performing arts. Eligible projects must include content for television, at least one digital media platform and high levels of Canadian elements, including Canadian creative content.

Funding for this stream is $324 million. The CMF requires at least 50% of a broadcast corporate group's envelopes to be spent on some kind of rich and substantial digital web or mobile component. Funding will be paid directly to the applicant producer in the form of license fee top-ups, equity investments, recoupable advances, and non-repayable contributions.

Eligibility Requirements:

- Eligible applicants must be Canadian-controlled, taxable Canadian corporations with their head office in Canada or Canadian broadcasters. Or, the applicant can be a Canadian broadcaster that is licensed to operate by the Canadian Radio-Television Telecommunications Commission.
- Eligible projects must include convergent content produced on at least two platforms including a television component and at least one digital media component. Digital media components include games, interactive web content, podcasts, on-demand content, etc.
- The project must speak to Canadians and be primarily intended for a Canadian audience.

- Underlying rights must be owned and be significantly and meaningfully developed by Canadians.
- The project must be shot and set primarily in Canada.

SUMMARY OF CONVERGENT STREAM PROGRAMS

DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

This program allocates funding to projects in the development stage through three sub-programs. These programs support Canadian television from both French and English regions of the country as well as in the English and French languages. The sub-programs are:

(I) English Development Envelope

This sub-program allows the CMF to make contributions to English language Canadian broadcasters who then choose which development projects they wish to allocate funds to. Projects must have received a financial commitment from the broadcaster in question which meets or exceeds a specific amount. This amount is calculated by the CMF.

Amount of Contribution

For the television component the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- 50% of the eligible costs in development; and
- $200,000 for big budget series in all genres, $125,000 for dramatic mini-series or $100,000 for all other eligible types of programming.

For the digital media component(s) the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- 50% of the eligible costs in development; and
- $50,000

(II) French Selective Process Development

This sub-program allows the CMF to contribute funds to eligible French projects through a selective process. This process involves projects from across Canada being evaluated and comparatively assessed within same genres. The CMF chooses which projects to allocate funds to and how much to contribute. Projects must have received a financial commitment from a Canadian broadcaster.

Federal Government Incentive Programs

Amount of Contribution

For the television component the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- 60% of the eligible costs in development; and
- $200,000 for big budget series in all genres, $125,000 for dramatic mini-series or $100,000 for all other eligible types of programming.

For the digital media component(s) the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- 50% of the eligible costs in development; and
- $50,000

(III) French Regional Development Program

Eligible applicants must have their head-office in the province of Quebec and be more than 150 km from Montreal. The sub-program has two segments, the French Regional Project Development and the French Regional Project Pre-Development.

Amount of Contribution for the French Regional Project Development Segment

For the television component the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- 60% of the eligible costs in development; and
- $200,000 for big budget series in all genres, $125,000 for dramatic mini-series or $100,000 for all other eligible types of programming.

For the digital media component(s) the CMF's maximum contribution will be the lesser of:

- $50,000

Amount of Contribution for the French Regional Project Pre-Development Segment

The CMF may contribute up to a maximum of $5000 per eligible project

This program enables the CMF to allocate funding envelopes to English and French broadcasters in an amount which reflects their history of supporting Canadian Programming. Broadcasting companies are then able to choose which projects to contribute portions of their envelope to subject to specified maximum contribution amounts..

Amount of Contribution

- For the television component maximum contribution amounts are determined based on project types. More information can be found at www.cmf-fmc.ca
- For the digital media component(s) the maximum contribution is the lesser of 50% of a projects eligible costs and $200,000.

Official Treaty Co-Productions

Canada is a party to co-production treaties with more than 50 countries,¹² which notably exclude the United States. Co-production treaties are designed to assist Canadian producers and their counterparts in one or more other countries to collaborate on a production. This pooling of the creative, technical and financial resources of both producers helps to reduce the various risks of production and enhances the ability of the co-producers to finance and proceed with the production. Co-production treaties also simplify administrative and regulatory procedures such that goods and equipment used for production can flow easily between the participating countries.

When a production is made in accordance with a co-production treaty, the production gains “Official Treaty Co-Production” status. In Canada, the certification of Official Treaty Co-Productions is handled by the Co-Productions office of Telefilm Canada. As an Official Treaty Co-Production, the production is treated as a “national production” of each co-producing country and is subsequently eligible for government incentives and tax benefits in both countries on a proportionate basis. In Canada, an Official Treaty Co-production should qualify for treatment as a Canadian Film or Video Production for the purposes of the CPTC and as a Canadian program for the purposes of the CRTC. For example, if the Canadian co-producer is responsible for 60% of the co-production budget, then 60% of the budget is generally eligible for Canadian subsidies and the CPTC. The production may also be eligible for benefits under provincial programs, and, as a Canadian program, may be able to command higher license fees from broadcasters. It is important to note that these are general rules, and that the level and type of government support available are subject to the terms of the particular treaty and the application of specific provincial rules.

Co-production agreements generally specify the minimum financial, creative and technical participation required by each party, conditions for participation by third parties and procedures for entry and exit of personnel and equipment from participating countries. Such agreements also specify the language of the production and the co-producers, and stipulate that all services are to be provided by nationals of the participating countries. In general, the production must be filmed in one or more of the co-producers’ countries. However, approval to film in a third-party country is occasionally granted. Approval may also be obtained to use an actor who is not a national of any of the co-producers’ countries.

Generally, co-producers share responsibility for the exploitation of the completed production. Exploitation within a co-producer’s home country is the responsibility of that producer and proceeds from such exploitation generally belong to that co-producer. Receipts from exploitation in other countries are usually split between co-producers in proportion to their contributions to the production budget. Typically, the copyright is shared, while domestic use of the copyright is controlled by the respective co-producers.

For an international co-production to gain Official Treaty Co-Production status, a co-production must be approved by the Co-Production office of Telefilm Canada. The approval process begins when the co-production agreement and supporting material are submitted to Telefilm Canada for an “Advance Ruling.” This ruling will be granted if the production appears to comply with all aspects of the relevant co-production treaty. If the production is financed and made in accordance with the co-production agreement, Telefilm Canada will generally grant “Final Approval.” Any changes to a project may result in the loss of Official Treaty Co-Production status. Consequently, all changes are subject to review by Telefilm.

If Canada is not party to a co-production treaty with a specific country, a Canadian producer may obtain ad hoc approval from Telefilm Canada for Official Treaty Co-Production status. For Canadian authorities to grant such approval it must be shown that Official Treaty Co-Production status would be beneficial. However, ad hoc approval is not generally granted for a Canada-U.S. co-production.

Official Treaty Co-Productions

Telefilm Canada Certification for Co-Productions

Co-productions will generally be certified by Telefilm Canada if all of the following criteria are satisfied:

- Creative and technical participation is proportionate to the financial contribution of each co-producing country.
- The Canadian financing covers the cost of Canadian elements, which can never be lower than the minimum applicable treaty requirement. The minimum financial participation of each country varies from 15% to 30% depending on the treaty.
- The producer, the crew and the personnel exercising control over the creative, financial and technical aspects of the Canadian share of the project must be Canadian citizens or permanent residents.
- For co-productions with a European Union member country, the director(s) and scriptwriter(s) must be citizens or permanent residents of Canada or of a European Union member country.

The United Kingdom and France are Canada's two leading co-production partners, and below is an overview of the co-production treaties Canada has in place with these nations.

United Kingdom-Canada Co-Production Treaty

Although there is no tax incentive in the UK for television productions, the co-production treaty between Canada and the UK applies to both cinema and television. The Treaty, which has been in place, with some revisions, since 1975, is presently being renegotiated by the Canadian and British governments.

In the UK, the Department for Culture Media and Sport (DCMS) administers co-production treaties. In order to qualify as an official co-production, a film must be certified according to the terms of the bilateral treaty. Effective April 1, 2007, administration of the film certification process moved to the UK Film Council. All films that began principal photography after January 1, 2007, must therefore apply to the UK Film Council for certification. The DCMS remains responsible for signing and issuing provisional and final British Film certificates, based on the UK Film Council's assessment.

In order to qualify as an official co-production under the treaty, applicants must meet the following requirements:

- A co-producer's financial contribution to the co-production film shall be at least 20% of the total budget
- The production must have a minimum budget of $350,000
- Where a co-producer from one country provides less than one half of the total production costs, then the co-production must employ at least one leading performer, one feature performer, six craft or studio employees and one writer (if required) who are nationals or residents of that country.

In addition to the treaty requirements, since 2003 the DCMS has also:

- Made a distinction between the financial contribution (outlined above) and the "film-making" contribution; The DCMS requires that at least 40% of co-production budget expenditures occur in the UK for feature films made in the UK.
- Narrowed the interpretation of what qualifies as UK expenditures.
- Required that a minimum of 25% of the total qualifying production expenditure is incurred on filming activities that take place within the UK.

France-Canada Co-Production Treaties

Although there are separate co-production treaties for television and cinema, the main requirements under both treaties are essentially the same. In France, the treaties are administered by the Director General of Le Centre National de la Cinématographie.

Official Treaty Co-Productions

To qualify as an official co-production under the treaty, applicants must meet the following requirements:

- A co-producer's financial contribution to the co-production film shall be at least 20% of the total budget. This contribution requirement also applies to tri-partite productions. However, where the film is a French-language feature film with a budget greater than $3.5 million, then the financial contribution need only be 10%.
- The minority co-producer shall be required to make an effective technical and creative contribution, ideally in proportion to its investment.
- There must be two versions of the co-production - one in English and one in French. Dubbing must occur in Canada or France.

The treaty provides for several exceptions to the general requirement that an official co-production is wholly created within France or Canada. For example:

- Location shooting can occur in a third country if the script or action requires it, and if technicians from the co-producing countries participate in the filming
- Performers ordinarily resident in a third country may be authorized to participate
- Exceptions may be granted for third party producers, scriptwriters, performers, directors in exceptional cases on twinned productions.

For more information, visit Telefilm's Co-Production Guide at www.telefilm.gc.ca.

Interprovincial Co-Productions

The guidelines for interprovincial co-productions are designed to assist Canadian producers in one or more other provinces to collaborate on a production and access tax incentives and government financing in their respective province. Similar to international co-productions, interprovincial co-productions facilitate the financial and creative collaboration between producers from various provinces. However, guidelines for interprovincial co-productions tend to be less complex than those set out in various international co-production treaties. Still, there may be various requirements dealing with ownership issues and minimum expenditures in order to qualify for some provincial tax credits.

For example, the Ontario Film and Television Tax Credit (OFTTC) guidelines require the following from an interprovincial co-production:

- The producer of the Ontario portion of the production qualifies as an Ontario resident for the 2 years immediately preceding the production year in which principal photography for the production commenced
- Not less than 20% of the cost of producing the production is the responsibility of the Ontario producer (the "Ontario Portion")
- Not less than 75% of the all amounts in respect of the cost of the Ontario Portion of the production, are payable to Ontario-based individuals or corporations for goods or services provided by Ontario-based individuals or corporations.

Private Incentives

There are various private programming funds available to assist in the financing of film and television program development, production and/or distribution. Similar to government incentives, these private incentives support distinctively Canadian-content productions and stimulate production in certain provinces. These incentives are usually in the form of equity, loans or grants.

British Columbia Government Incentive Programs

The FDBC Film Development Society of British Columbia (British Columbia Film) administers the following tax credit programs.

FILM INCENTIVE B.C. (FIBC)

The FIBC is a package of refundable corporate income tax credits which are divided into five specific categories:

Basic Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 35% of eligible British Columbia labour costs up to a maximum of 60% of total eligible production costs. To be eligible for this incentive the production company must be Canadian controlled, and the producer must control the ownership of the copyright. In addition, the producer must be both a Canadian resident and a resident of British Columbia.

Regional Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 12.5% of eligible British Columbia labour costs, prorated by the number of days of principal photography outside the designated Vancouver area, divided by the total number of days of principal photography in British Columbia. It assists production companies who shoot their productions outside of the Vancouver designated area. To be eligible, principal photography of the production must occur in British Columbia outside the designated Vancouver area for a minimum of five days, and more than 50% of the total number of days in which principal photography is done in British Columbia. This incentive must be accessed in conjunction with the FIBC Basic Incentive.

Distant Location Incentive

This tax credit is equal to an additional 6% of eligible British Columbia labour costs, prorated by the number of days of principal photography done in a distant location, divided by the total number of days of principal photography in British Columbia. It assists production companies who shoot their productions in distant locations of British Columbia. To be eligible, principal photography of the production must occur in British Columbia in the distant location zone for at least one day. This incentive must be accessed with the Regional Incentive.

Training Incentive

This tax credit is the lesser of 30% of trainee salaries or 3% of eligible British Columbia labour costs. To be eligible for the training incentive tax credit a trainee must be registered in an approved training program. This incentive must be accessed in conjunction with the FIBC Basic Incentive.

The above four tax incentives allow a production company to claim a combined benefit in the amount of eligible British Columbia labour capped at 60% of total production costs.

Digital Animation or Visual Effects Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 17.5% of eligible British Columbia labour costs incurred in making the production and which are directly attributable to digital animation or visual effects activities. This incentive must be accessed in conjunction with the FIBC Basic Incentive. There is no cap on the amount that can be claimed for a particular production or corporation.

British Columbia Government Incentive Programs

Eligibility Requirements

- 75% of principal photography must occur in British Columbia
- The production must attain 6 of the possible 10 CAVCO points
- A minimum of 75% of total production costs must be spent on goods or services provided in British Columbia by British Columbia residents or companies. In addition, a minimum of 75% of post-production costs must be paid in respect of post-production work carried out in British Columbia and be paid to British Columbia residents or companies
- The production must be distributed by a Canadian distributor or broadcaster
- The production must be shown in Canada within two years from completion of the production
- Some genres are excluded, such as: pornography, talk shows, news, live sporting events, game shows, reality television and advertising.

It should be noted that special rules apply to treaty co-productions and inter-provincial co-productions.

PRODUCTION SERVICES TAX CREDIT (PSTC)

The PSTC is a package of refundable corporate income tax credits which are divided into four specific categories (it should be noted that a particular production may access only one of the FIBC or the PSTC, but not both).

Basic Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 33% of accredited qualified British Columbia labour costs incurred in making the production.

Regional Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 6% of accredited qualified British Columbia labour costs incurred in making the production, prorated by the number of days of principal photography outside the designated Vancouver area, divided by the total number of days of principal photography in British Columbia. To be eligible, principal photography of the production must occur in British Columbia outside the designated Vancouver area for a minimum of five days; and more than 50% of the total number of days in which principal photography is done in British Columbia. This incentive must be accessed in conjunction with the PSTC Basic Incentive.

Distant Location Regional Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 6% of accredited qualified British Columbia labour costs incurred in making the production. Prorated by the number of days of principal photography in British Columbia within a prescribed area to the total days of principal photography in British Columbia. This credit must be accessed in conjunction with the regional PSTC.

Digital Animation or Visual Effects Incentive

This tax credit is equal to 17.5% of accredited qualified British Columbia labour costs incurred in making the production which are directly attributable to digital animation or visual effects activities. This incentive must be accessed in conjunction with the PSTC Basic Incentive.

There is no cap on the amount that can be claimed for a particular production, corporation, or group of corporations.

British Columbia Government Incentive Programs

The PSTC is available to both international and Canadian projects shot in British Columbia and is not subject to any content or Canadian ownership requirements. To be eligible for the PSTC:

- The production company must have a permanent establishment in British Columbia.
- Except in the case of episodes consisting of all, or substantially all, digital animation or visual effects, episodes of less than 30 minutes must have a minimum budget level of $100,000 per episode, and episodes that are 30 minutes or longer must have a minimum budget level of $200,000 per episode. For all other productions the minimum budget level is $1,000,000.
- The production company must either own the copyright in the production or have contracted directly with the owner of the copyright in the production to provide production services.
- Some genres are excluded, such as: pornography, talk shows, news, live sporting events, game shows, reality television and advertising.

INTERACTIVE DIGITAL MEDIA TAX CREDIT

- This tax credit is equal to 17.5% of qualified British Columbia labour expenditures to develop qualifying interactive digital media projects, namely video game development, for projects which commence after August 2010.

Beginning in 2007, successful applicants may also receive an additional travel advance equal to 20% of British Columbia Film's project development advance for travel within North America.

Eligible projects include television movies, pilots, television and mini-series, documentaries and docudramas. Live action, animation, reality, performing arts and entertainment, variety, talk and game shows are also eligible. Productions for theatrical release, such as feature films, docudramas and documentaries are also eligible.

British Columbia Film will no longer participate in funding the television components of projects receiving funding through the convergent stream of the Canada Media Fund. However, the digital media components are still eligible to receive support through the Digital Media Development Fund.

Eligible applicants must apply to access the Project Development fund within 30 days after a letter of agreement is made with an arm's length bona fide distribution entity, the National Film Board of Canada, a licensed public or private broadcaster, the Harold Greenberg fund, or the Can West - Hot Docs Development fund.

Ineligible projects include those that are libellous, have pornographic content, or serious or gratuitous sexual violence or exploitation.

Applications will be assessed on a first-come/first-served basis until the program budget is expended. International treaty or interprovincial co-productions are eligible. Note that the British Columbia Arts Council also offers a Project Assistance for Media Artists Program.

Alberta Government Incentive Programs

ALBERTA FILM DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The Alberta Government, through the Alberta Film Development Program (AFDP), provides incentives to filmmakers shooting their productions in Alberta by way of direct grants. Depending on the level of Albertan ownership in the production and number of Alberta residents in key creative positions (writer, director, art director, editor, DOP, composer and 2 performers in lead or supporting roles), the AFDP will make available between 20% and 29% of all eligible Alberta expenses.

For the purposes of the AFDP, productions are classified into the following three categories to determine the level of incentive that can be accessed:

- Majority (51% or more) Albertan ownership of production and a majority financial and creative control. Albertans employed in at least 2 out of 8 key creative positions. Eligible to receive a grant for up to 27% of eligible Alberta expenses. The project will have enhanced eligibility if there are 3 or more Albertans in key creative positions, and can receive a further 1% for each additional Albertan employed in a key creative position, up to a maximum of 29%.

SASKATCHEWAN FILM EMPLOYMENT TAX CREDIT

Administered by the Saskatchewan Film and Video Development Corporation (SaskFILM), the Saskatchewan Film Employment Tax Credit is equal to 45% of eligible labour expenditures, to a maximum of 50% of the total production costs. “Eligible labour” refers to Saskatchewan and deemed non-Saskatchewan labour. There is a bonus equal to 5% of the total production budget for productions shot 25 miles (40 km) outside of Regina or Saskatoon, which increases the maximum credit to 22.5% of the total production budget. This bonus is calculated on any expenditures incurred in Saskatchewan. There is also a key creative position bonus equal to 5% of eligible labour expenditures. This bonus is designed for projects with budgets of $3 million CDN or more, and the production must attain a minimum 6 out of 10 points based on the hiring of Saskatchewan crew into key positions.

There are no corporate or project caps, and no copyright requirement for this tax credit. A unique advantage of the program is the producer’s ability to deem non-resident labour as eligible when no qualified Saskatchewan resident is available. Saskatchewan Film requires a mentoring component to take advantage of the deeming provision. Above-the-line salaries and wages are included in the calculation of the tax credit. Government assistance is deducted from the eligible amount with the exception of Telefilm Canada or equity from the Canadian Television Fund Equity Investment Program (EIP), the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC), the National Film Board (NFB), the Canadian Television Fund (CTF), the federal tax credit, Saskatchewan Tax Credit, license fee for broadcast rights provided by public broadcasters, legitimate investment from a public company, corporation or department with a reasonable expectation for return and any legitimate usage fees provided by a public agency, corporation or department.

Eligibility Requirements

- The production company must have a permanent establishment in Saskatchewan
- The production company must pay at least 25% of all labour costs to Saskatchewan residents
- The production company cannot be controlled by a corporation based outside of Saskatchewan
- The production company must be incorporated in Canada or in a province of Canada, be a taxable Canadian corporation and be producing an eligible film.

Ineligible genres include: news, current affairs, talk shows (except for children’s shows), game shows, sports events, gala presentations and award shows, reality television, advertising and commercials, stock footage (other than documentaries), productions that solicit funds and pornography and industrial, corporate or institutional productions.

Eligible productions need not meet Canadian or Saskatchewan content requirements. Eligible genres include: drama, variety, animation, children’s programming, music programming, education resource programs, information series or documentaries. Canadian broadcasters and specialized channels are not eligible applicants.

SaskFILM also provides financial support through the following programs: Development Loan Program, MAX Equity Investment Program, Filmmakers Program, Non-Dramatic Equity Investment Program, Market Travel Assistance Program, Festival/Competition Travel Assistance Program, Sasktel/SaskFilm Interactive Travel Assistance Program and Marketing and Promotions Program.

YUKON FILM LOCATION INCENTIVE PROGRAM SPEND REBATE

This spend rebate is a 25% rebate of Yukon below-the-line spend where eligible Yukon labour content equals or exceeds 50% of the total person days on the Yukon portion of the production.

This rebate is calculated as the lesser of $2,000 multiplied by the number of days of production in the Yukon, to a maximum of $15,000, or 15% of the total cost incurred in the Yukon.

This rebate is also available for the production of commercials. 50% of travel costs from Calgary, Edmonton or Vancouver to Whitehorse are paid subject to the following calculation: the lesser of $2,000 multiplied by the number of days of production in the Yukon, to a maximum of $10,000, or 10% of total Yukon expenditures.

For the Travel Rebate, the minimum Yukon crew level must be 15% or more of the total person days for the Yukon portion of the production. Travel costs for any non-Yukon crew member where in the sole discretion of the Yukon Film & Sound Commission, a qualified Yukon crew member could have been used instead will not be considered for the Travel Rebate.

SAG GLOBAL RULE ONE

The Screen Actors Guild's (SAG) "Global Rule One" (GR1) effectively extends the territoriality of the SAG collective agreement into Canada. As a consequence, many SAG members will not agree to render services in Canada unless they are engaged on SAG terms and minimums.

While the imposition of GR1 initially created many problems for foreign productions shooting in Canada, the introduction of certain exemptions by SAG, the support of the Canadian actors' union (ACTRA), and the establishment of an accepted protocol, have resulted in a fairly streamlined process.

Under the current rules, a foreign producer typically engages SAG members through a SAG signatory company and then lends the services of those SAG members to the local Canadian production company. In the situations where the foreign producer is not a SAG signatory, the Canadian production services company will become signatory to the ACTRA Independent Production Agreement and sign a side letter with SAG for the SAG members. The SAG members will work under the SAG rules but their agreement will fall under ACTRA jurisdiction. The Canadian producer will require the SAG member to sign the ACTRA "faceplate" agreement and will attach the long form SAG agreement as a rider.

DIRECTOR'S GUILD OF CANADA

A production company becomes a signatory to the Directors Guild of Canada (DGC) by signing a simple five-page document called "Bargaining Authorization and Voluntary Recognition Agreement" (Agreement). This Agreement is between the production company, parent company and the DGC for the specific production. The parent does not become a signatory for all future productions by signing the Agreement; it only applies to the specific production.

Once the production company becomes a DGC signatory, it must hire DGC members in good standing for all job classifications covered by the DGC Basic Agreement (the DGC and DGA cover similar job classifications).

In the event the director on the production is a Directors Guild of America (DGA) member, the DGA and the DGC have a reciprocal agreement that DGA directors may work in a DGC jurisdiction under the DGA Agreement. The DGA application process is much more extensive than the DGC.

Despite the reciprocal agreement, the producer is still required to obtain prior approval from the DGC. The director needs to become a permittee by completing a work permit application for non-Canadians. The DGC also requires that a resume be attached to the permit application. A permit fee of $200.00 per week of engagement during principal photography will be deducted from gross remuneration and remitted by the producer to the DGC. The fringe benefits will be calculated and paid pursuant to the DGA Basic Agreement. The DGC may refuse the permit if it is a first-time or inexperienced director.

WRITERS GUILD OF CANADA

Whether the Writers Guild of Canada (WGC) or the Writers Guild of America (WGA) has jurisdiction over a given production is determined by the location of the producer. If a Canadian producer is engaging a WGA member, the agreement will fall under the terms of the WGC Independent Production Agreement (WGC IPA), and the Canadian producer must become signatory to the WGC and sign a side letter with the WGA. The WGA member writer then must obtain a Working Rule 8 Waiver from the WGA.

The WGA member's contract shall be subject to all the terms of the WGC IPA, except for the following:

1. The minimum compensation payable to a WGA member shall be that under the WGA Basic Agreement, which is generally higher than the WGC
2. The producer will have to pay the additional expense of the WGA member's pension and health benefits.

Please note that under the WGC IPA the writer does not assign copyright in and to the screenplay, it is only a licence for a specific use.

WITHHOLDING TAXES – GENERAL

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) is responsible for the enforcement and collection of income taxes levied under the Income Tax Act (Canada).

The Income Tax Act generally requires any person who pays for services provided by a non-resident in Canada, even a non-resident payer, to withhold and remit taxes from the payment. Payments to employees are subject to withholding at graduated payroll rates. Payments to behind-the-scenes (BTS) independent contractors are subject to 15% withholding tax if the independent contractor is a non-resident. Payments to actors or their loan-out companies are subject to withholding tax at 23%.¹⁷ The actor can elect to file a Canadian tax return and pay tax at ordinary marginal rates on the income, in which case the 23% amount is treated as a prepayment on account of the tax. If an independent contractor (whether BTS or on-camera) is a Canadian resident, no withholding is required.

TREATY EXEMPTIONS

1. Employee Exemption

Non-resident employees may be exempted from Canadian taxes if Canada has a tax treaty allowing this exemption with the country in which the employee is resident. For example, employees who are resident in the United States will not be subject to Canadian tax if they:

- (i) earn less than $10,000 in Canada, or
- (ii) were present in Canada for less than 183 days in the calendar year and the remuneration is not borne by a Canadian resident or non-resident with a fixed base in Canada.

Employees who qualify for this exemption must submit an application to the CRA for a letter of authority to reduce or eliminate withholding taxes.

2. BTS Waiver

The CRA has developed administrative guidelines whereby it will issue a tax treaty-based “waiver” upon application by a non-resident BTS contractor who is resident in a treaty country.¹⁸ The guidelines are intended to establish that the non-resident is entitled to a tax exemption pursuant to a tax treaty between Canada and the non-resident's country of residence. Where a waiver is obtained, the payer is not required to withhold taxes.

1. “Labour expenditures” for the federal tax credit are defined as the labour expenditures incurred from the final script stage to post-production directly attributable to the production, reasonable in the circumstances and included in the cost to the corporation. For the provincial tax credits, a similar definition is used, but such labour expenditures must be paid to residents of that province. Eligible expenditures can be incurred as early as 2 years before principal photography begins so that in-house development labour costs of a script are eligible.

3. R.S.C., 1985, c. I-2, s. 2(1).
4. R.S.C., 1985, (1st Supp.), c. 28, s. 3.
5. The criteria are different for co-productions and co-ventures. Co-productions may qualify as Canadian Film or Video Productions for the purposes of both the CPTC and the CRTC rules, whereas co-ventures may qualify for status as a Canadian program only for CRTC purposes (see “Qualifying as a Canadian Production for CRTC Purposes”).
6. The definition of “Canadian” and “producer” are set out in section 1106 of the Income Tax Regulations (C.R.C., c. 945).
7. In the case of films, points will only be awarded for the screenwriter if all screenwriters are Canadian, or if the principal screenwriter and author of the published work on which the screenplay is based are Canadian.
8. The criteria used to determine which performers are lead performers are: (i) remuneration, including benefits, residuals, travel and living expenses, etc., (ii) billing and (iii) screen time.
9. See endnote 10 above for the criteria used to determine lead voice.

15. On June 29, 2000, the Quebec Ministère des Finances released an Information Bulletin announcing that the applicable Quebec content criteria based on “domicile” of key individuals would be replaced as of the date of the bulletin by criteria based on “residence” in Quebec at the end of the previous year. In addition, as an alternative to the 6-out-of-10 point requirement, a production will now be permitted to qualify as a Quebec Film on a 7-out-of-10 point basis provided that 5-out-of-7 points are awarded for individuals residing in Quebec and not more than two points are awarded to an individual who, although not a Quebec resident, is a Canadian citizen for the purposes of the Citizenship Act or a permanent resident for the purposes of the Immigration Act, as at the end of the preceding year.
16. Film NB may waive the requirement that the New Brunswick Labour Incentive Film Tax Credit only applies to wages of New Brunswick residents if it determines that it is in the best interests of the Province.
17. Note that the Canada-U.S. treaty reduces the withholding tax rate to 10% on the first $5,000 (Cdn) paid to an independent contractor, whether for BTS or on-camera services.
18. U.S. resident actors may qualify for a waiver under these guidelines only if their gross income earned in Canada in the calendar year is less than $15,000 (Cdn).
